Sustainability in the Hohe Salve region

Sustainability is a multifaceted term in today's world. However, the term sustainability is very present in our everyday lives. Although we are constantly surrounded by the word, there is not always a clear definition. You may understand it to mean "doing the right thing". This is exactly what we want to do in the Hohe Salve region. Tourism growth also needs to rethink and see sustainability as a coexistence of people, nature and the economy for the benefit of all involved.
